Three Beatles shorn of their locks

Melbourne, June 17

Three of the Beatles had hair-cuts today. Two hairdressers, Val Behrens and Grace Ferrigno, cut three of the Beatles' hair at their hotel and later took the shorn locks back to their salon to share them with workmates.

They said for most of the two hours of cutting, shampooing, and drying, Ringo Starr, Paul McCartney, and John Lennon jived to records and fooled around.

Tonight, two girls who work at the hair salon, Jill Cameron and Tina Dowling, stood outside the Festival Hall here offering locks of the Beatles' hair in exchange for tickets to the group's last two concerts. Reuter.
